Ms Natasa Nord is Associate Professor at Norwegian University of Science and Technology since 2012. Her background is mechanical engineer in HVAC. She teaches in a few courses related to building energy supply and Thermodynamics. Her research field is within: building energy supply, energy planning, district heating, lifetime commissioning, zero emission building, building energy monitoring, simulation of buildings and HVAC systems, and energy analysis.